

Lexicon Networks

"SaaS Integration Specialist"

Company Profile

Lexicon Networks is a full service integration solutions provider with technology service offerings that accentuate our capabilities within the SaaS arena. Lexicon's integration solution expertise and service offerings are tendered at the multinational level and are a keen reflection of our core competencies. Lexicon is composed of a team of professionals with many years of experience in the SaaS arena. Our expertise includes but is not limited to CRM, ERP, PLM, RDBMS and appliance or software based middleware applications making our integrations services possible. We focus on identifying and implementing solutions that save our clients time, money, and that run efficiently within their current infrastructure. We offer assessment and selection of the appropriate integration solution. Due to the fact that disparate systems are often difficult to integrate, our expertise has given us the innate ability to choose the best EAI to simplify the integration process. In addition to choosing the best integration solution, we have the capability of providing cost benefits analysis, project management, project implementation, operational support, staff training and Software Applications development. Lexicon Networks Architects provide management and oversight for all software integration projects. Integration Management includes providing research, defining the project scope, setting time lines, milestones and development oversight. Customer and partners alike rely on Lexicon to deliver robust integration solutions that are cost effective and deliver immediate ROI. Lexicon has earned the reputation among its peers of engaging the most complex projects with a great deal of success, and outcomes that speak for themselves, with hundreds of integrations solutions delivered at a high level of quality with tangible results. Lexicon is a partner world certified IBM partner. We have been providing integration solution consulting services via subcontracting and/or direct since 2008. Lexicon's consultants are thought leaders with tried and true subject matter expertise within the SaaS arena. Lexicon's core focus is to develop long lasting customer relationships through unmitigated trust and undeniable performance.
